One day the porter came to his wife and told her that he was obliged to go away with the baron for some days and that she would have to take the prisoner's food to them, besides cooking it.

BATTERY TO FIGHT FIRE

Unique Piece of Department Apparatus in San Francisco.

The San Francisco fire Separtment has in its service a machine bearing somewhat the appearance of a small cannon mounted on two wheels, says the Philadelphia Record. Instead of pouring out shot and shell like the latter, the machine in question, however, pours out a great volume of water on a fire with telling effect. This piece of apparatus is known as the Monitor battery and was invented by H. H. Gorter, constructor for the San Francisco fire department. It is designed to take the place of a water tower in small confines where the latter cannot be taken and can be used in a basement blaze and up to a fourth story inclusive. Several lines of hose are connected, thus concentrating a great force of water that is easily handled by one

The nezzle is provided with tips. When not in action the table upon which rests the hage nozzle is suspended so as to throw the weight on the wheels and relieve the borse of the strain. When required for action the table is released by a lever which throws it forward to a level, at the same time proving the center of gravity forward. The weight is thus thrown between the toes at the end of the shaft and the axle, giving the machine stabillty to withstand a back pressure of 1,500 pounds to the square inch. The toes referred to are spikes under the end of the shaft for the purpose of obtaining a purchase in the ground to prevent moving.

angle. A roller bearing is provided for traveling the nezzle through a horizontal are which reduces the friction caused by back pressure to a minimum. The total weight of the battery complete is 1,650 pounds and owing to its construction and free waterway, a solid stream is thrown ranging from 200 to 300 feet, according to the pressure. The nozzle with its tremendous pressure can, as before stated, be easily handled by one man, who guides it with a small lever.
